LOCAL ROCK BAND, “DESTROY NOTHING”, CREATES AWESOME THINGS

High energy Coachella Valley-based post hardcore band, “Destroy Nothing”, newest album, “Black Cat Roller-Coaster”, will be released on January 26, 2024, and will be available online on all major streaming platforms. Prior albums and recordings are also available on Spotify, Apple Music, Bandcamp, Soundcloud, TIDAL, Pandora, Youtube, Amazing Radio, and Radio Wigwam.

The multi-talented musical duo who make up the edgy hardcore punk band are dedicated artists -- Miguel Arballo and Sean McCune. Arballo provides vocals, guitar, bass. As a familiar face in the area, he has appeared on TV commercials, stage, and independent films as an actor. McCune contributes vocals, drums, and programming. Both “partners in crime” have a long history of performing, both write the music equally from start to finish.

“We each bring our ideas to a jam session,” says Arballo. “Where we arrange a composition as a demo and analyze it and continue arranging it. It’s a melding of creativity we hope audiences can relate to, enjoy, and react to...”

The current version of the band formed in 2022 in Indio, California. Formerly known as “Analog Lab” from 2022 to December 2023, the band’s name was officially changed in January 2024, just prior to a release of an album, to better identify with the progression of the type of music they produced, which could be described as “retro-futuristic” with intentional modern social commentary with an homage to the Punk forefathers in style delivery.

“Destroy Nothing” has appeared at an impressive variety of venues, including The Hood, The Whisky-A-Go-Go, Redwood Bar, The Doll Hut, The Lab, and Brick by Brick.
